

Muddy Fun!

This morning we were woke up by a surprise summer thunderstorm. The kids loved listening to the thunder and watching the rain this morning. Then this afternoon, the girls found some mud in the yard when they went out to play.

We were talking about all the fun they had in the mud tonight at dinner. Then Daddy had a "great" idea. He told the kids that if they really wanted to have fun, they should play in the mud, barefoot. He told that that maybe mommy would take them out to play tomorrow. Wink, wink!!

Yea, I don't think so. The kids wanted to go now, and since it was daddy's great idea, he got to take them out.

Here are the fun pictures of our evening in the mud ...
