

Look What the Kids Found

Well, our little garden is beginning to look a little sad. Everything is just about done producing, and it is about time to clean up are garden for the summer. But, our tomatoes are just now starting to produce and they are doing very well! The kids went out today to pick and this is what they found!